

- 1. The static aspect of a data model is the types of values the model takes on. The dynamic aspect is the operations on these values.
- 2. Statically, the different objects. Dynamically, how they combine.
- 3. Statically, the characters. Dynamically, the operations on navigation and characters, such as deletion.
- 4. Statically, the data objects within cells in some program. Dynamically, the operations on data objects that assign values to cells.